

A PASSION FOR THE GREATER GOOD

Berkeley is well known for its tradition of public service, which plays a key role in the university's teaching and research. Outside of the classroom:

- 5,231 graduate and undergraduate students served community-based organizations, government offices, and schools in 2014–15.
- Berkeley has produced the most Peace Corps volunteers — more than 3,600 — since that organization's inception in 1961.

NOBEL PURSUITS

Twenty-two members of the Berkeley faculty have won Nobel Prizes, including seven current faculty members. Additionally, 29 Berkeley alumni have won the award — five of whom have served on the faculty.

COMMITMENT TO PUBLIC SERVICE

Founded by students in 1967 as the Community Projects Office and known until 2013 as Cal Corps, the UC Berkeley Public Service Center partners with the community, student leaders, and faculty to engage about 6,000 students each year as volunteers, and through jobs, internships, and courses.

A RESEARCH POWERHOUSE

Berkeley's research strength includes expertise in addressing pressing global challenges in many areas, including health, energy, poverty, and the environment.

- In 2015, US News & World Report ranked six Berkeley graduate programs — chemistry, computer science, English, history, public policy, and sociology — No. 1 in the nation.
- In 2015, 110 Berkeley graduate students earned National Science Foundation graduate research fellowships, compared with 100 for Stanford, 67 for Harvard, and 29 for Princeton.

A PUBLIC MISSION MADE POSSIBLE BY PRIVATE SUPPORT

Public-private partnerships between the university and individuals, businesses, and other organizations are essential to preserve Berkeley's excellence in education, research, and public service. Nearly 63,400 donors — including alumni, parents, corporations, and foundations — gave more than $462 million in private gifts and pledges in the 2014–15 fiscal year.

ONE DAY, MAKING A BIG IMPACT

On November 19, 2015, Berkeley held its second annual 24-hour campuswide fundraising blitz — the Big Give. Fueled by a variety of contests, widespread social media participation, and a collective desire to keep Berkeley the No. 1 public university in the world, donors made 8,149 gifts totaling more than $5.5 million. This global outpouring of support touched every Berkeley school and college, and programs as diverse as our great university.

MARKET VALUE OF BERKELEY'S ENDOWMENT (IN BILLIONS)

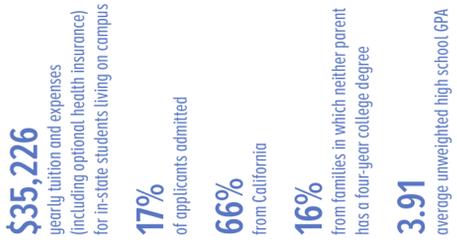

BERKELEY'S ENDOWMENT: A LASTING LEGACY

The university's $4.0 billion endowment is the solid foundation upon which Berkeley's excellence is built. A long-term, reliable source of funding, the endowment allows us to realize our mission of teaching, research, and public service for generations to come — and to see a clearer picture of what lies ahead for Cal.

Berkeley's endowment generated $131.2 million in payout to the campus in 2014–15.

A NEW RESEARCH HUB

130 acres
Size of the planned Berkeley Global Campus, which will serve as a hub for a consortium of world-class international universities and provide a state-of-the-art research and educational facility for the brightest minds from across the world.

As the world's leading public university, Berkeley educates, challenges, mentors, and inspires tomorrow's leaders in academic, arts and cultural, business, government, journalism, and social sciences.

A UNIVERSITY OF GREAT DISTINCTION

Home to more than 27,000 undergraduates and more than 10,000 graduate students, Berkeley is internationally renowned for excellence and pioneering achievements across all disciplines. At the heart of its preeminence are Berkeley's professors: highly distinguished researchers and scholars — and leading in their fields.

KEEPING EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITY ALIVE

Scholarship support from private donors enables Cal to fulfill its public mission to accept students based on their ability to achieve, not on their capacity to pay. About 9,100 undergraduates come from low-income families — nearly as many as the number of Pell Grant recipients at all of the Ivy League schools combined.

ATtracting BRILLIANT YOUNG FACULTY

Roughly one-quarter of Cal's undergraduates are out-of-state and international students — and the additional nonresident tuition that they pay helps keep Berkeley affordable for lower-income California students.

WORLD-CLASS TEACHING AND RESEARCH

- The university offers more than 10,000 undergraduate and graduate courses in approximately 300 degree programs, and typically produces more Ph.D.s than any other U.S. research university.
- Cal offers more than 50 foreign languages, including Bengali, Swedish, and Turkish.
- 53% of Berkeley undergraduates responding to a 2014 student survey assisted faculty in research or had completed at least one student research course.

FINANCIAL SUPPORT FOR STUDENTS

THE CHALLENGE OF STATE FUNDING

DECLINE IN BERKELEY'S STATE SUPPORT

State support for Berkeley has plummeted in recent years, placing California's world-renowned system of public higher education at risk. The State of California provides only about 13% of Berkeley's $2.5 billion annual budget — with the remainder coming from tuition, research funding, and philanthropy. Thirty years ago, the state provided roughly half of Berkeley's funding.

LEAVING CAL WITH LESS DEBT

On average, Berkeley undergraduates graduate with less debt than their peers at institutions in California and across the nation.

DRAWING BRILLIANT YOUNG FACULTY

Berkeley's commitment to hiring the very best young faculty is reflected in the university's high number of junior faculty who receive coveted research fellowships from the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation each year.
